

33. 2nd Iteration: Informal Chat with Sixth Form Stakeholders

- 33.1. I conducted an informal chat to show the first game layout design to my Sixth Form Stakeholders and they suggested that the variables above the game would be better dispersed along the horizontal line at the bottom of the game rather than being shown in a vertical list. They also suggested that I add the username and their avatar next to the game title. Based on this feedback, I created the second iteration of the game layout as follows.

Alternative Layout

34. 2nd Iteration: Design Survey of Sixth Form Stakeholders

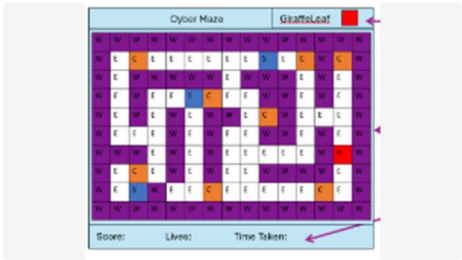

- 34.1. With two designs of game layout to consider, I ran a formal survey of my Sixth Form Stakeholders. I restricted this phase of stakeholder feedback to the Sixth Formers because they are the only stakeholders who will be playing the game initially and I am keen that the layout appeals to them.
- 34.2. Most of the stakeholders (80%) preferred the second design, which had been developed to take into account their informal feedback.
- 34.3. This was the survey that I used:

Maze Game Layout

To clarify the design of the maze by preference of Stakeholders

1. Which choice do you prefer 1 or 2

☐ Option 1 ☐ Option 2

2. Would you prefer if the horizontal bar was at the top

☐ Yes ☐ No

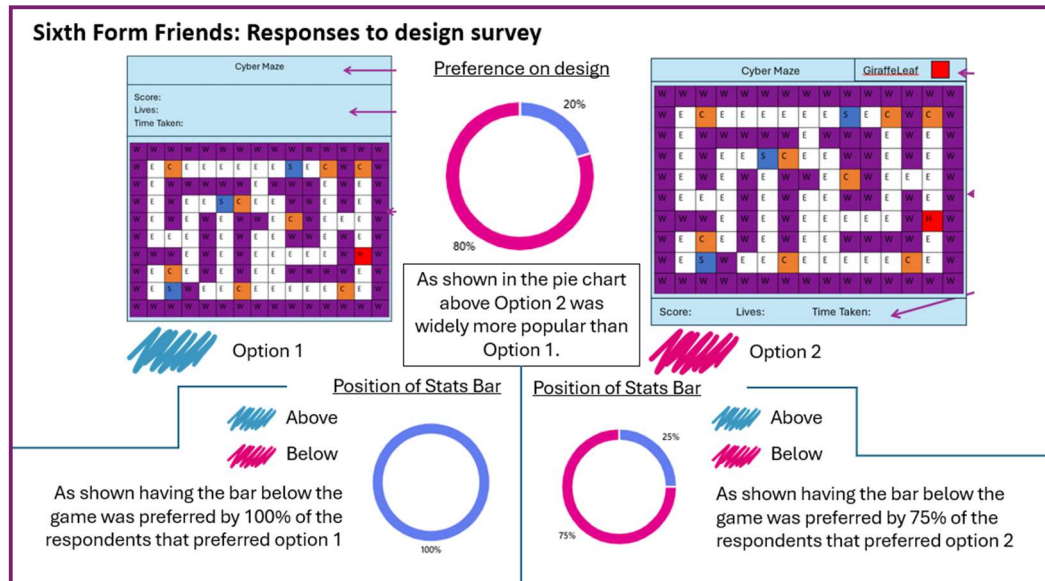

3. Would you prefer if the larger bar was at the bottom

☐ Yes ☐ No

4. Any Comments/suggestions (stuff to include, designs that would look better)?

 Add new question

34.4. This is a summary of their responses:

34.5. I also received the following comments on some additional points to consider:

"I would love if the Avatar icon was nearer the centre of the top bar"

"more evenly space the bottom stats"

"A Retro Game look (use of greens and blacks)"

"nahhhhhhhh it's all swagggg"

35. 2nd Iteration: Design Response to Stakeholder Feedback

35.1. Following the stakeholder feedback, I created a final design to accommodate the majority feedback.
